

VISION TEST FOR READING GLASSES

1. Make sure the patient is having difficulty seeing things that are up close (reading, sewing, etc.) and not far away.
2. Give the patient the lowest strength pair of reading glasses and have them look at the vision test below.
3. Continue to increase the strength of reading glasses and re-test the patient.
4. When you determine the correct strength for the patient, write the strength of the reading glasses on the intake form, initial that you have given the glasses.
5. Mark the tick sheet under the appropriate date and strength of glasses.
